GEORGE B. TODD

Throughout his life, George B. Todd was regarded as one of the hardest working people in Dorchester County, Maryland.

As a young man from a local family of modest means, he worked as a grocery clerk and distributed newspapers for the Baltimore Sun in the lower part of the county. For relaxation, he played on local baseball teams.

As he grew older, Mr. Todd established his own multi-line insurance agency and began to invest in city properties. Over the years he came to own 39 rental properties in Cambridge and was well known for keeping his homes in excellent condition and for treating his renters fairly.

By the time of Mr. Todd's death, at age 77 on September 28, 1998, this hard-working individual with a passion for his community compiled a personal fortune in excess of $6 million. In the months prior to his passing, he established the “George B. Todd Fund” at the Mid-Shore Community Foundation and named six of his closest friends as fund advisors, with the ability to appoint others over time.
